I wanted to use this example to show when this method could fail. As you can see it will keep the central image intact but at times it might warp the second image too much.
This is an image that highlights the perspective transformation (look at the doors on right)

Sorry no pictures of myself. Because the Image was not trimmed it does not fit exactly on the image.